Sightseeing Places base Point Srinagar

Srinagar

- Srinagar is often called the "Venice of the East".
- Lakes around the city include Dal Lake, noted for its houseboats, and Nigeen Lake.
- Wular Lake (72 kms towards Sopore) and Manasbal Lake (32 kms towards Ganderbal) lie to the north of Srinagar.
- Wular Lake is one of the largest freshwater lakes in Asia.

Dal Lake

- Dal is a lake in Srinagar (Dal in Kashmiri means Lake).
- The urban lake is integral to tourism and recreation in Kashmir, known as the “Jewel in the crown of Kashmir” or “Srinagar’s Jewel”.
- The shoreline of the lake, about 15.5 kilometres (9.6 mi), is lined with Mughal era gardens, parks, houseboats, and hotels.
- Scenic views of the lake can be witnessed from shoreline Mughal gardens like Shalimar Bagh and Nishat Bagh, built during the reign of Mughal Emperor Jahangir.
- Houseboats cruising along the lake in colorful shikaras offer picturesque views.
- During winter, the temperature sometimes reaches $-11\text{ }^{\circ}\text{C}$ ($12\text{ }^{\circ}\text{F}$), freezing the lake.

- The lake covers an area of 18 square kilometres (6.9 sq mi) and is part of a natural wetland covering 21.1 square kilometres (8.1 sq mi), including its floating gardens.
- The floating gardens, known as “Raad” in Kashmiri, blossom with lotus flowers during July and August.

Shikara Ride

- The shikara is a type of wooden boat found on Dal Lake and other water bodies in Srinagar, Jammu and Kashmir.
- Shikaras vary in size and are used for multiple purposes, including transportation.
- A usual shikara seats six people, with the driver paddling at the rear.
- Like the Venetian gondolas, they are a cultural symbol of Kashmir.
- Some shikaras are still used for fishing, harvesting aquatic vegetation (usually for fodder), and transport, while most are covered with tarpaulins and used by tourists.
- Some are used as floating homes.
- The craft relies on deodar wood (which does not decompose in water) and ranges from 25 to 41 feet in length.
- The pointed front end is followed by a central section made of 8 planks of wood, and the boat eventually ends in a flat rear segment.
- Two planks of wood lend each side elevation a vertical height of 1.5 feet.
- It has a conspicuous spade-shaped base.
